

A NOBLE SALAD-MIXER.

When many of the French nobility were refugees in England during the first years of that revolution of '93, which has not yet come to an end, they found various ways of living. The most singular man (as well as the most singular way of life) on the part of the refugees was the noble Chevalier d'Anbigue. In the deepest of his distress he was asked by an English friend to dine at a tavern. At the time the English used to eat lettuce just as they now do water-cress, with a little salt, and nothing else. D'Anbigue took the lettuce that was placed on the table, and proceeded to make a salad after the fashion of his country. The other guests in the room curiously watched the work and the artist. They sniffed up the refreshing air of a mayonnaise, and when the Chevalier and his friend had consumed the delicious mixture with an air of intense satisfaction, a guest from another table approached the former, and said: "Sir, it is well known that salad is made properly only by your great nation. Would it be too much to ask of your courtesy to mix one for me and the other gentlemen at your table?" The Chevalier accordingly assented. He went over, mixed the salad to their taste, made himself the while as agreeable as the salad, and just intimated, by the way, that he was a noble refugee without means of buying for himself what he mixed so well for others. The chief of the guests whom he had thus served pressed his hand at parting, and left a guinea in it. A golden idea was dropped at the same moment into the Chevalier's brain. He gave his address to the donor of the guinea, and the meaning thereof was thoroughly understood. A few days later D'Anbigue received a letter, inviting him to repair to a ducal mansion for the purpose of preparing a salad for a large dinner party, as it was understood it was his profession to do. D'Anbigue presented himself with alacrity, and when the task was completed he asked five pounds for the achievement. That completed the conviction of the party that he was an invaluable artist in salads. He could scarcely answer the calls made upon him. In a brief space of time he was to be seen in a little carriage, with an attendant, in whose care was a mahogany case containing various ingredients for the concocting of various sorts of salads according to different tastes and requirements. Subsequently he sold similar cases as fast as he could supply them, with instructions, for the benefit of patrons at a distance. Fortune, in short, rolled in upon him. He was a saving and a prudent man. The Chevalier put away eighty thousand francs by salad-making! Sixty thousand of that sum he invested in the funds when he returned to his native country. With the other twenty thousand he bought a castle and an estate—that is to say, of course, a country cottage and a garden, and lived at least as happily as if he had made it all by bloodshed and pillage in war.

HOW TO RULE A HUSBAND.

Above all things, if a wife wishes to make home attractive to her mate, let her keep a sharp eye on the cook; nothing makes a male creature more discontented with his house than bad dinners, ill-served; if there is anything that will make him swear, and there generally is, my dear young lady, although his temper seems so angelic when he is a wooing, it is cold plate with hot meat, or a hot one with his cheese. Neglect of this sort is unpardonable. Again, it may not be possible to give him dainties, but it is easy to avoid monotony by a careful study of the cookery-book; and it is quite astonishing how the monster man can be subjugated and assuaged by a judicious variation of his meals. The creature may be allegorically pictured lightly led by a fair lady with a wedding-ring through his palate. Indeed, there are a thousand ways to lead him, if women would show a little tact, with which they are so falsely credited. Opposition, contradiction, makes him furious; he stamps, he roars, and becomes altogether dangerous. Whereas, treat him tenderly, O wife, and you shall find him around your marriage-finger. I have seen wives miss their chance of gaining what they have set their eyes on a thousand times through sheer stupidity; they know that a certain line of conduct is sure to anger him, and yet they willfully pursue it, when smooth and easy victory awaits them in another direction. Treat such women, if you have not even instinct. Birds of paradise, for instance (not to be rude), would act in a more sagacious manner.

HOW PHOTOGRAPHY ASSISTS JUSTICE.

An interesting article on the applications of photography, in the last number of the Edinburgh Review, contains the following:—"The law has obtained, through this instrumentality, a witness to fact which it is difficult to gain. There is no cross-questioning such evidence. In cases of boiler explosion and accidents to machinery, and even the damage done to vessels by collisions at sea, the silent evidence of the sun-picture is sufficient to settle many a disputed point, and not long since, a lawsuit, in which Earl Spencer was one of the litigants, was decided by a photograph of a public road and garden wall, which settled a point of disputed boundary. "But the most extraordinary piece of legal evidence we have yet heard of occurred some time since in Australia. A gentleman named Barker with a surveyor to examine into the particulars of a certain mine claim, when he was suddenly seized by some roughs supposed to be in the pay of the other side, stripped, smeared with tar, and for want of feathers was ornamented with straw, wool, and other rubbish. When he managed to escape from his persecutors, instead of retiring to get rid of his horrid encumbrance, he determined to take a note of it at once, and forthwith proceeded to a photographer, where his likeness was taken in this extraordinary costume, and with this evidence upon him he proceeded to his lawyer, and laid his damages at $2000, which he ought to have obtained, if he did not."

That the language of Wales is not equal to the requirements of modern American democracy is shown by these few lines in the Welsh paper at Scranton:—"Hafri! Cynghedd! Democrat! FOREIGN MAIL NOTES.

When Garibaldi's daughter Theresa died at Florence, in January last, so little money was found in her possession that friends had to pay for her funeral.

The Gymnase Theatre in Paris, upon reopening its doors, resumed the representations of Frou-Frou, but the play which, previous to the war, had delighted the Parisians so much, did not prove attractive any more, and had to be dropped.

August Lewald, a German journalist, novelist, and dramatist of great celebrity, died the other day in his seventy-ninth year at Munich in Bavaria. Many years ago he started the Europa, a literary journal, which soon became the most popular paper of its class on the Continent of Europe. He was a brother of Fanny Lewald.

There has been a reconciliation between the King of Portugal and his Queen, Maria Pia. A letter from the Holy Father, remonstrating with the King for his conduct towards his consort, is said to have led to the reconciliation. Maria Pia, it is true, is a daughter of Victor Emmanuel, but this is the only godfather, and has always been very kind for godfather.

Prince Bismarck has two organs, an official one, the Provincial Correspondence, which is edited by Lothar Bucher, who was formerly a democrat of republican proclivities, and a semi-official one, the Korrespondenz-Blatt für die Provinz, which is edited by General von Goltz. The Korrespondenz-Blatt, though generally well informed about the views and intentions of the Prussian Government, has no connection whatever with it.
